

REVENUE CYCLE MANAGEMENT

Patient Financial Clearance

Guide patients to the appropriate financial pathway — quickly and confidently

As patients take on more financial responsibility, their financial experience becomes even more crucial. To increase point-of-service collections and reduce bad debt, providers should identify patients who require financial assistance or extra time to pay. They should also determine which patients can meet their financial obligations upfront, before treatment begins.

Patient Financial Clearance

Patient Financial Clearance determines which patients are likely to pay and connects those who may qualify for financial assistance with appropriate programs. Now you can recommend the best financial pathway for each patient in real time.

Patient Financial Clearance allows you to confidently collect payments, knowing each patient has been thoroughly assessed and directed to the right financial pathway. Your staff can evaluate payment risk, recommend the most appropriate collection policies and focus your financial counseling discussions — all in real time.

Additionally, with integrated patient financial self-service automation, patients can choose to complete applications and submit documents online using their smart phones or computer.

How we do it:

- Equip patient advocates with specialized software to facilitate financial assistance and connect patients with the right programs.
- Automate screening prior to service or at the point-ofservice to determine eligibility for financial assistance, Medicaid or other programs.
- Predict propensity to pay using Experian's proprietary Healthcare Risk Score.

Patient Financial Clearance

How we do it (continued):

- Leverage Experian's comprehensive data and analytics capabilities to calculate the patient's best payment plan based on their unique financial situation.
- Expedite identity verification by using Experian's data, scoring and custom workflows.
- Integrate staff-facing eCare NEXT® workflow engine software to streamline the screening process before or after care.
- Enable patients to self-serve and complete the financial assistance screening process through online applications and personalized texts.
- Improve patient satisfaction with a transparent application process that puts them in control of their financial experience.

How self-service works for patients:

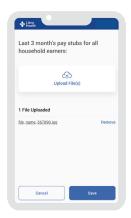

The Self-Service Patient Financial Clearance mobile and web experience enables patients to complete screening forms, securely upload required documents and provide an e-signature. After they've submitted their application, your patients receive real-time updates on its status, eliminating the need to contact their providers. All submitted information is securely stored for staff access and archiving.

Step 1: Patients answer screening questions after a simple authentication process.

Step 2: Based on client-defined rules, patients are presented with a custom digital financial assistance application.

Step 3: Verification documents are easily and securely uploaded to the financial assistance application for staff review and archival.

Step 4: Patients provide their e-signature to certify the information provided and submit the application.
